

Direct Screen Colonoscopy Program

Parkway Surgery Center has developed a Direct Screen colonoscopy program that allows patients to go directly to the surgery center for a colonoscopy screening.

The direct view of the colon via colonoscopy saves lives by early detection. A colonoscopy does not guarantee colon cancer prevention, but removing polyps has proven to significantly decrease the risk of developing colon cancer in the future.

Participation criteria:

- ✓ Men/women 50 years old or above without a history of colon cancer in their family, or
- ✓ Men/women 40 years old or above with a history of colon cancer in their family
- ✓ African American men/women 45 years old or above without a history of colon cancer in their family
- ✓ No rectal bleeding
- ✓ No abdominal pain
- ✓ No changes in bowel habits

Participating physicians:

Carmelo Herrero, M.D. - Albert Mason, M.D. - Roger Hsiung, M.D. - Bipin Saud, M.D. - Jonathan Ricker, D.O.
